School Exhibition.

Mr. Shed closed the winter term of his school by giving a public exhibition to a crowded audience at the affair. The exercises consisted of singing, reading, and declamation .-The confidence and ability which the young boys and girls manifested in their efforts at declaiming, reflected much credit upon their studiousness and also of the labors of their teacher. We are not aware that we ever before witnessed so much precocity as was exhibited by the youth on this occasion. The singing was excellent .-We venture to say that the Prairie City Choir is composed of as fine an array of musical talent as any other one in the Territory. Sweeter singers than the Misses GIFFORDS we have not heard since we left the States, and the melodious bass of Messrs. BROOKS and McALLISTER and the musical tenor of Messrs. Deering and STURTEVANT, are not found in every town. The audience were favored with hymns, odes, glees, sentimental and humorous songs. At the close of the exhibition Dr. Canniff, Esq. GRIFFITH, Mr. H. GIFFORD and Father Moon, made remarks appropriate for the occasion, and at a late hour the audience dispersed, highly delighte d with the evening's entertainment.

This is the heading to an advertisement which may be found in our advertising columns, to which your earnest attention is most respectfully invited. Mr. Gifford has made it a point to investigate into the wants of the farming community of this section of the country and is endeavoring to satisfy them. There can be no doubt that his efforts will be duly appreciated by finding a ready sale for the numerous commodities he has brought into market.

We learn that Miss ELIZA GIFFORD contemplates opening a school at the house recently vacated Ly Mr. SHED. In connection with the branches usually taught in common schools, she proposes to give instruction in music and drawing. If Miss Greeono's literary abilities are equal to her musical attainments, she is well qualified for a school mistress.

Prairie City will be abundantly blessed with educational facilities this summer.
